Camera Installation

- The opening size for camera mounting should be 1.38in (35.1mm). The perfect hole saw bit size is 1 3/8 or 35mm. While not perfect, a 1 7/16 or 37mm will work.
- Make sure that your camera is mounted so that the words "RazerCam" are right side up with the arrow pointing UP.
- There are small holes on the rear of the mounting nut, with set screws. Hand tighten the mounting nut and use the supplied allen wrench to tight on set screws.
- Near the 5-pin connector on your camera is a small loop of green wire. This wire is your mirroring switch. When the circuit is complete (intact) your camera image is forward facing. When this circuit is incomplete (cut) your camera is reversed, making it a mirror image. If requiring a mirrored camera, it is recommended to place shrink wrap or black tape over the exposed wire ends to prevent shorts. If utilizing a Dakota Micro Monitor your camera can also be mirrored from the monitor. Your camera will need to be rebooted (powered on/off) for this switch to take effect.
- Your RazerCam camera has an IR array that outputs visible white light. If you mount this camera close to another light source, your viewing in darkened environments will be increased.
