

Stranded UL1429 wire is great for general 150V electronics projects where the wire may periodically be exposed to higher temperature elements such as soldering irons, heat guns, or closed cabinet construction. This means it is perfect for use in applications such as computers, control panels, and office equipment. An irradiated cross-linked PVC jacket protects the wire against abrasion, chemicals, oils, & solvents, and additionally does not soften or burn when heated. The stranded conductor inside the jacket is made of tinned copper to provide good electrical connectivity. This wire conforms to UL and MIL-spec specifications and provides excellent uniformity for easy processing, stripping, and terminating. This hook up wire is available in several wire gauges (from 16 to 28 AWG) to meet your specific requirements. It is also available in a variety of colors (see below) to allow for easy circuit identification, as well as numerous spool sizes (see below) for your convenience.
